

CITY COUNCIL
ORDERS THREE
NEW FIRE PLUGS

HILLSDALE AND GREENWOOD AVENUES, AND EAST WASH-INGTON STREET GET PLUGS

EACH PLUG COSTS $75 A YEAR

Three new fire plugs were ordered at strategic points over the city by the city council at its regular meeting Tuesday night. A fourth plug will be shifted to another location, making a total of four new plugs.

The plugs will be installed on Hillsdale and Greenwood avenues, in Northwood, on the extension of east Washington street, and at Jacob and Gillespie streets.

O. F. Lakin, of the public utilities committee, reported that the committee had made a survey of the city, and felt that additional plugs were necessary on the two Northwood avenues, and at Jacob and Gillespie streets. Councilman Laurence Snider was the only councilman voting against the Northwood plugs.

After these had been voted in by the other five councilmen, Mr. Snider made a strong appeal for an additional plug on the extension of east Washington street. He said people there had asked for fire protection before the others had, and inasmuch as they had been taken into the city against their will, they were entitled to fire protection. It was pointed out that the farthest plug east is now about 1,200 feet from the George Long residence and city firemen only have about 1,000 feet of hose. After a discussion, the councilmen voted another plug in at this location, but did not designate whether it should be placed on the continuation of east Washington street or on the Indianapolis road. This will be determined after a survey is made.

A new plug will be placed about the water of the length of Hillsdale avenue while on Greenwood avenue, a plug on the extreme end of the avenue in front of the county hospital will be moved south 530 feet in order to afford protection to houses on the avenue and still reach the hospital also.

O. J. Stewart, superintendent of the water company, said he had an estimate through the Eitel property to run a water line from Melrose avenue to Hillsdale avenue. He said he planned to extend the line on across to Greenwood avenue, provided essements could be secured through the property between the two streets. Running the line clear across from Melrose avenue to Greenwood avenue will connect dead ends of water lines, it was said, affording a complete circuit of water and making the pressure stronger.

Mr. Stewart was also authorized to proceed with the installation of a plug at Jacob and Gillespie streets.
Another order by the previous council, ordering out the plug at Green and Iowa streets, is being held in abeyance by Mr. Stewart until the utilities committee can make a further investigation of it.

Installation of the three new plugs will cost the taxpayers of the city $225 additional annually, while the transfer of the plug on Greenwood avenue will not cost the city anything. If the plug is ordered out at Green and Iowa streets, the cost will be reduced $75.

Permits were granted to Frank and Gertrude Stoessel to remodel a house at 1002 south Indiana street, and to Sherman Early to finish a driveway at 924 south Indiana street.

City councilmen, after a brief discussion, failed to put their O. K. on the new street roller, thus preventing the city clerk from paying for the roller when a claim is presented.
It is said the new roller has already broken a belt with which power is transmitted from the engine to the wheels, and that a mechanic was here Tuesday working on the machine.

By a unanimous vote the street commissioner was authorized to put a man at Pittman's Pond to supervise the dumping of trash. It is said that several have been dumping trash over a fence erected by De-Pauw University. Councilmen authorized payment of $1 a day to a watchman for a period of thirty days.
Councilman O. F. Lakin, broached the subject of weed cutting and after a discussion the police department was authorized to notify property owners where weeds are growing to excessive heights. It is said a statute provides for the cutting of weeds.
Roscoe Hurst was given authority to proceed with the building of a miniature 18-hole golf course at Arling-

WIFE OBJECTS TO PROBATE OF
JOHNSON WILL

ESTATE LATE REFORM WORKER OF GREENCASTLE DIVID-ED THREE WAYS

WILL IS FILED TUESDAY

Missions, Civic Reform And Son To Get Proceeds Of Estate, Wife Gets Allowance

The last will and testament of the late David B. Johnson, reform worker of Greencastle, and well-to-do real estate owner, presented for probate in the Circuit court Tuesday, provides for a three-way division of the estate: between the Christian Missions, home and foreign; Moral Civic reform agencies, and his legal heirs.
Written objections to probate of the will were filed by the widow, Carrie B. Johnson, and the cause has been continued until the next term of court.

The will executed February 26, 1924, was witnessed by Harry L.
Wells and Kenneth O. West, and appoints the Central Trust company as trustee and executor of the estate.
Under the terms of the will, proceeds of the estate each December 31, are to be divided three ways by the trustee, one-third to be applied to Christian Missions, one-third to Moral Civic Reform, and one-third to legal heirs.

This division is to continue during the life of his wife and until each of his grandchildren has acquired a college education.
The trustee is directed to appoint W. E. Carpenter of Brazil, or in case of his death, his son, Guy O. Carpenter, and Frank L. Brown, of Coatesville, as a committee to apply to Christian Missions and Moral Civic Reform, the amounts designated, their judgment to be final and binding upon the trustee and executor, as to amounts to be given to missions and moral civic reform, and the missions and reform agencies to receive the same.

The one-third left to legal heirs provides that his wife, Carrie B.
Johnson, is to receive $25 per month during her life. A provision is made, however, that if she shall secure to their son and grandchildren the inheritance of her personal estate in full to the amount or value of about $3,000, her monthly allowance shall be $50 per month during her life.

A second provision provides that if his wife elects to leave her personal estate to her sister, Hattie B. Johnson, during the life of said Hattie B.
Johnson, on the condition that she leave to the son or grandchildren, then surviving, double the sum received by her from his wife, Carrie B. Johnson, then his wife is to receive $50 a month instead of the $25, the same as if she had directly secured the inheritance of her personal estate in full to the amount or value of about $3,000 to his son or grandchildren surviving. The trustee is directed to secure due and adequate guarantee of this provision.
The son Jesse Paul Johnson is left $3,000 to assist him in acquiring a home on the condition that he save a like amount for that purpose.

To each of the grandchildren surviving, is left $300 annually, each year after they graduate from high school, while they attend and maintain passing grades in an institution of higher learning, up to the age of 25 years.
The will further provides that when the provisions above outlined have been carried out, the estate is to be appraised and divided equally between Christian Missions, moral civic reform and the son. The one-third share to the son shall continue a trust during the life of the son, who shall receive on December 31st of each year the full net earnings of his share that year. At his death this trust shall end and the residue is to be divided equally, share and share alike among the grandchildren.

AMBULANCE ON HAND WHEN AUTOMOBILES CRASH AT HAR-MONY TUESDAY MORNING

It is not everyone that can have an ambulance waiting for him when he is smashed up in an auto accident, but C. H. Free, of Vincennes, and R. W.
Gray, of Clairmont, had that experience Tuesday. Both were badly bruised and cut-up in a head-on crash at Harmony.

The Lawson and Son ambulance had made a run to near the Butler school house in response to a call that a hiker had been hit by a passing automobile and probably fatally injured. The ambulance made a fast run only to find on its arrival that the driver who had hit the hiker had picked up the injured man and taken him to Greencastle.

On the return trip the Lawson ambulance stopped at Harmony to satisfy the curiosity of a group of citizens who had watched the fast run east and were waiting for the ambulance on its return. Just as George Lawson was about to throw in his gears to resume the trip home, he was startled by a crash and looking back, saw two automobiles piled up at the side of the road. George backed the ambulance up to the scene and loaded two injured victims into the ambulance and made the run to the Clay county hospital.

TARIFF VOTE FRIDAY
WASHINGTON, June 11 (UP)— All doubtful senators save the two Pennsylvania protectionists, Grundy and Reed, were definitely assigned to positions for or against the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill today as tight lines were being drawn for the vote at 2 p. m. Friday.

The United Press poll showed 47 for the bill and 47 against with only two Pennsylvanians yet marked undecided. Reed announced he would make his position clear in a speech upon the floor later in the day, but Grundy is keeping silent.

The other two doubtful ones were eliminated when it was learned Sen.
Bratton, Dem., N. M., intends to announce his opposition to the measure in the senate today and Senator King, Dem., Utah, has arranged to pair himself against the measure.

John R. Brown To Be Tried Saturday

CHARGE OF CHILD NEGLECT TO BE AIDED IN COURT, WIFE ENDED LIFE

John R. Brown, age about 35 years, laborer, will be tried in the Putnam Circuit Court Saturday morning on a charge of child neglect, following his plea of not guilty to an affidavit filed by Mrs. Benjamin Toole, charging him with failing to provide for three small children.

Judge James P. Hughes severely lectured Brown in court Wednesday morning, charging him with being responsible for conditions in his home that caused his wife to end her life January 20. Since then, the judge accused, Brown has dumped his children out to their grandparents for care.

Judge Hughes informed Brown that he was going to care for his children or go to the penitentiary. He put him under bond of $500 for an appearance in court Saturday and also to insure support of the children.
Brown told the court that he was earning 40 cents an hour and only wanted a chance to prove that he would do right by his children. A sister of his dead wife, who had filed the affidavit, alleged that Brown had only visited his children three times since their mothers death and had furnished groceries on very few occasions.

HAMRICK BOWS TO MAYR

Local Man Nearly Gains Nomination For Secretary Of State
In Hot Race

INDIANAPOLIS, June 11 (UP)— Eleven nominees virtually unknown in Indiana politics, were slated today to carry the Democratic banner in the 1930 campaign. They were selected yesterday in a state convention described by veteran political observers as the stormiest on record in Indianapolis.

A six corner race for secretary of state nomination plunged the convention hall into turmoil for two hours.
The victory was won finally by Frank Mayr, Jr., South Bend, but only after clever strategy on the part of his backers had caused a wave of feeling that seemed certain to give the toga to Arthur Hamrick, Greencastle, to subside.

The group supporting Hamrick, composed largely of adherents of the late Thomas Taggart, had secured hundreds of third and fourth ballot votes, and at the completion of the fourth ballot Hamrick had increased his total from 336 on the first, to 512.

Bedlam broke after the fourth ballot was completed, and delegates began freely switching to Hamrick.
The resulting confusion made it impossible for tabulators to compile the vote and a halt was called. Hamrick's supporters objected to the halt.
Followers of Mayr, who saw his defeat imminent unless the tide could be turned, called for a tabulation as the vote stood. After considerable shouting and milling about the floor, legates were quieted and the vote tabulated.

The delay was sufficient, however, to still the pro-Hamrick sentiment and on the fifth ballot, Mayr's forces, augmented by those of Virgil Simmons, Bluffton, who had dropped from the race during the stormy period, secured 963 votes for their candidate, while Hamrick could garner only 530.

The Democratic ticket follows: JUDGE, Supreme Court, First District—Walter E. Treanor, Bloomington.

JUDGE, Supreme Court, Fourth District—Curtis W. Roll, Kokomo.

JUDGE, Appellate Court, First District—Posey T. Kime, Evansville; William H. Bridwell, Sullivan.

JUDGE, Appellate Court, Second District—Alphonse C. Wood, Angola; Harvey J. Curtis, Gary.

SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION—George C. Cole, Lawrenceburg.

SECRETARY OF STATE—Frank Mayr, Jr., South Bend.

AUDITOR OF STATE—Floyd E.
Williamson, Indianapolis.

TREASURER OF STATE—William Storren, Scottsburg.

CLERK OF SUPREME AND APpellate Courts—Fred Pickett, Richmond.

Country Home
Damaged By Fire

RESIDENCE OF MR. AND MRS.
CHARLES CRAWLEY SCENE OF BLAZE TUESDAY

Fire starting from an electric iron in the pantry of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crawley, on the Bloomington road, south of Greencastle late Tuesday afternoon, did several hundred dollars in damage, before the blaze was extinguished by Mr. Crawley and the Greencastle Fire department.

Most of the fire damage was confined to the pantry and kitchen while smoke and steam damaged the interior of the front part of the house. A part of the kitchen furniture was destroyed by the fire.
Mrs. Crawley was not at home at the time but Mr. Crawley, who was working outside, saw the smoke and after notifying the Greencastle fire department, used water to combat the flames. He had the fire almost under control when the firemen reached the scene.

THREE YOUTHS ARE FINED FOR TRESPASSING

NOAH HUNTER, DONALD MAR-SHALL AND CHAS. SHIELDS FINED $18 EACH

Three Madison township boys, Noah Hunter, 18, Donald Marshall, 15, and Charles Shields, 19, each were fined $18 and costs by Judge James P. Hughes in circuit court this morning, upon their pleas of guilty to charges of malicious tresp-pass, filed by R. P. Moore.

Hunter, the alleged ring leader of the trio, was alleged to have influenced the other two youths to pull up about one-fourth of an acre of corn belonging to Moore, and to dismantle a corn cultivator belonging to Moore, on the night of June 3.

According to testimony of the boys, they made two trips to the corn field, pulling up the corn the first trip and dismantling the cultivator the second trip. They also are said to have left a gate open in hopes that stock would get into Moore's oats field.

Hunter, is said to have held a grudge against Moore because "Moore didn't like me and I didn't like Moore." Hunter in his testimony intimated that Howard Moore, a son of Moore, had mistreated his two younger brothers and the elder Moore later had threatened him with a hammer.

Hunter admitted he had entered and written on a school house blackboard, but denied he had broken the lock on the door. The boys were questioned about other misdemeanors but denied any connection with them.

Moore testified he had spent two days in reassembling his cultivator.
Three other Madison township men, Mr. Ellis, C. W. Sigler and F. E.
Long, estimated that the corn pulled up would have made between 15 and 20 bushels when matured.

Judge Hughes gave the youths a severe lecture, stating they had put themselves on a level with crows and varmints, in pulling up the corn. He warned them that any further trouble that is traced to them would result in a stiffer punishment. Judge Hughes expressed his regret that parents of the boys would have to shoulder their punishment, rather than the boys themselves.

OIL TANKER
SINKS WITH HEAVY TOLL

RAMMED BY PASSENGER STEAM-ER IN FOG OFF
SCITUATE

FIRE FOLLOWS COLLISION

Flames From Doomed Oil Craft Spread To Steamer Adding To Tragic Confusion

BOSTON, June 11 (UP)—The Steamer Fairfax, which rammed and sank the Oil Tanker Pithis off Scituate last night, arrived here under her own power at 10:15 A. M. E. D. T. today.

The vessel had succeeded on making Port despite a jagged hole, six feet long and two feet wide, in its prow.

BOSTON, June 11 (UP)—Explosions and fire at sea, following the ramming and sinking of an unidentified oil tanker by the coast-wise passenger steamer Fairfax, took a heavy toll of life during the night.

Stories told by survivors who were landed here early today by the rescue steamer Gloucester indicated that the death list might exceed 30, although no definite figures could be established pending investigation.

Manager Herbert McCarthy of the Shell Eastern Petroleum company's plant in Chelsea expressed the belief that the sunken tanker might have been the Pithis, a Shell craft. The Pithis carried a crew of about 15, under command of Capt. Jones, Mc-Carthy said.

The oil tanker, cut in two when rammed amidships, burst into flames and sank quickly after the crash, which occurred in a dense fog off Scituate on the southern Massachusetts coast.

Flames feeding on the oil tanker's cargo swiftly spread to the big passenger ship which had rammed her.
The clothing of seven passengers of the Fairfax and of 11 members of the steamer's crew, caught fire and they became living torches as the oil blaze engulfed the ship. All 13 of the fire victims finally leaped into the sea, according to survivors.

Search of the waters at the scene of the tragedy for possible survivors or bodies was impossible early today because of the fog. It was believed the entire crew of the tanker, estimated at 15, and some 18 passengers and seamen of the Fairfax, who leaped overboard, had perished.

While the Gloucester was speeding toward Boston with the injured and other survivors, one of the Fair-fax's passengers, an unidentified woman, died from burns.

Upon the Gloucester's arrival at Boston, the injured passengers were removed carefully, placed in ambulances and taken to hospitals. Some of the survivors were so horror-stricken at what they had gone through that they also were placed in hospital wards for rest.

At sea, the ill-fated Fairfax was reported proceeding to Boston under its own power despite the damage it had received. The surviving members of the crew of 70 were aboard her, it was stated.

The Fairfax left Boston early last night for the first run of the season to Norfolk and Baltimore, carrying 71 passengers and a crew of 70.
For several days a dense fog had blanketed the New England coast, and the vessel proceeded cautiously.

SYNOPSIS

Fair-skinned Dawn, mystery girl, becomes the bride, against her wishes, of the black and Mahanogah, H. R. Sweetheart, Tom Allen, has been transported to England, on the instigation of Shep Keyes, shipwrecking bully with influence over the blacks. Shep's purpose is to have the field clear for his sinister designs on Dawn. Over her he holds the whip of native vengeance should the fact that she is white be divulged. Tom is with the British who recapture the East African territory from the Germans. The natives supplicate the British to end the drought; then, balked, they turn on Dawn and plan to burn her, for not being able to bring rain, as their god does.

INSTALLMENT TWENTY-SEVEN

When Eric had left, Colonel Judson admitted an orderly. For several seconds he paced the floor while the visitor stood at attention. The commander appeared to be having extreme difficulty arriving at a decision. Suddenly he turned to the waiting orderly.

"My orders to your captain," he said decisively, "are that he shall locate this place they call the Hill of Skulls and cover it with a guard. He is not to permit any natives to come within one hundred yards of the place. We are to have no human sacrifices."

The orderly saluted and departed to deliver the order.

Colonel Judson had made up his mind that Captain Eric had given him excellent advice, that the one certain way of preserving peace was to impress the severest pos-

"You know, Shep's been hangin' around the canteen all the time the past few days, acting pretty sore."

"Aw, that's because the Colonel threatened to arrest 'im for wearing the uniform of the Askari guard," scoffed Pigeon.

"It isn't that," insisted Blink. "Now, Johanna knows all these native tricks, and she knows Shep Keyes. The only thing on Shep Keyes' mind that ain't Dawn is Tom Allen."

"There's plenty of submarines Tom's got to get through before he gets back here," declared Pigeon. "He's the same obstinate Britisher he used to be, he'll get through them," laughed Eric.

At that moment, in accordance with the best melodramatic traditions and perhaps also to support his reputed obstinacy and Blink's hunch, Tom appeared on the trail approaching the canteen.

"By the bloomin' sword of Nelson," gasped the amazed Pigeon, the first to see him.

Tom raised a whoop of delight and ran toward his three companions. "There was a noisy exchange of greetings, dozens of unanswered questions and the general confusion of a reunion. It was then noticed that Tom was wearing the uniform of a captain of British infantry."

"Oh, yes," he explained, "I've been off to the war. It's lots of fun. I'm on my first leave now and here I am."

"I am going away," said Eric.

"Serves you right," rejoined Tom. "You exchanged me when I didn't want to go and now they're shipping you back to Germany—and you don't want to go?"

Eric laughed. "Very true," he admitted, "but you had something to bring you back."

"Yes," Tom agreed, "I've come back for Dawn."

All hesitated to apprise him at once of Dawn's danger. And afterward? queried Eric.

Tom's gesture confessed his lack of plans. "Quiet safe," he quoted. "Who can tell? If this war goes on we might meet, you and I, somewhere in Flanders."

"God forbid!" Eric's tone was fervent.

In his casual inspection of the canteen Tom remarked the absence of the native guards, now all replaced by Englishmen. He felt genuinely sorry, that is, as a British captain of infantry is able to feel for an officer of his nation's enemy.

"Perhaps now, Eric," he asked, as he and the German seated themselves at a table on the veranda, "you are able to understand my deep reluctance to part from here."

"Fully," admitted Eric. "And you know, Tom, I've regretted times over, my haste in believing that black monster's word over yours that day. But perhaps it is all for the best. Here you are—and in a position to perform a real service for Dawn."

"Is Dawn in need of help," Tom asked quickly, fearful of Eric's answer.

The duty of apprising Tom of Dawn's real peril was too great for Eric to undertake. It was cowardly, he knew, to keep this secret longer in ignorance. But he couldn't force himself to destroy Tom's joy with disastrous tidings.

"Why, Tom," he boomed dramatically, "certainly you know that Dawn is now the goddess Thabu, the idol of the natives. What could happen to her to make her need help?"

"Unless things have changed considerably since my departure, she will always need help while Shep Keyes hovers this settlement with his presence," Tom remarked grimly. "By the way, what has happened to Shep?"

Grateful that the change of topic had spared him from further discussion of Dawn, Eric smiled in relief. "Oh, Shep," he echoed. "Oh, he's been sent back into the bush with the rest of the blacks. He has been stripped of his power."

"Whip and all?" asked Tom, grinning.

"He's even lost his medals," laughed Eric. "He's the meekest native you ever saw. The kids even taunt him. You have nothing to fear. He's harmless."

But one man who heard these words of Eric's disagreed with them. That man was Shep himself, within easy earshot in the foliage. He scowled darkly at Eric's jovial belittlement of his prowess.

"Harmless is it?" he muttered to himself. "You are going to learn different, Captain Eric, and you, too, Captain Allen."

At the first opportunity, Shep hurried to Colonel Judson's quarters. With the humility he had acquired by his demotion to the jungle, he communicated to the orderly a desire to see the commander. Judson, who detested Shep, hesitated to see him, but upon second thought decided it would be well to advise the troublemaker that the British military intended to prevent the sacrifice of Dawn.

Who Cuts Your Hair?

Anyone can cut hair. All one needs is a pair of scissors. But to cut hair so as to bring out the full beauty of feature is another thing. Only trained barbers such as those at the W. O. Timmons shop at 11, N. Indiana St., know the latest modes of cutting hair in the way that suits you best. Greencastle folks like this shop and appreciate its sanitary equipment and its atmosphere of sunshiney cleanliness which is evident everywhere. Both men and women like the courteous service accorded them here. The cheerful courtesy included in the working system here is one thing you will be glad to remember. "It makes a difference!" The proprietor, Mr. W. O. Timmons, is a man who goes ahead because nothing can keep him back. He has owned this shop for some time and the place continues to grow in popularity. It is his business to overcome obstacles and he goes about it with a smile. Friendliness, spotlessness and good snappy service are what the "Who's Who" writer found here. Visit this shop yourself and see how much you will enjoy the same snappy service and friendly interest accorded you.

Another thing which puts this shop in a class by itself is the fact that Mr. Timmons is indeed an accomplished artist in the ultra-modern method of cutting hair, and he very carefully selects his barbers according to their qualifications and last but not least, if we come across a more cheerful, good natured fellow than Mr. Timmons in the next few days, I promise to print that fact across the front page in red letters.

Can you tell me the number of chairs in this shop?—Adv.

VONCASTLE

H. B. Warner And Lois Wilson Are Featured In "Wedding Rings"

Now Showing

H. B. Warner and Lois Wilson will be seen together again in the leading roles of "Wedding Rings," the new First National and Vitaphone dramatic romance, when the picture opens at the Voncastle tonight.

The pair are proving one of the screen's most popular "teams" in mature, sophisticated roles. They have appeared together recently in "The Gamblers," "The Furies" and "Conquest," as well as in other productions. Both have been on the screen for several years, but have come to the front with a rush since the advent of talking pictures. They have fulfilled the desire of the new talkie audiences for well played drama, according to critics.

"Wedding Rings" is the story of an unscrupulous charmer who looked up on all men as fair game for her wiles. Her sister's friends were especially During the years these men have been here they have always tried to contribute to the happiness and welfare of others. Never selfish, thinking always of the convenience and pleasure of their customers, they make it a point to always handle the highest grade of merchandise, and thereby they have established a certain confidence between themselves and their customers that is rarely equalled by any firm. avored by her. Olive Borden plays this role of the exotic but shallow charmer, while Miss Wilson is the artist sister. Warner is the prize catch and the man over whom the two sisters wage their battle of feminine wiles.

The picture is an adaptation of the novel "The Dark Swan," by Ernest Pascal, which enjoyed a wide success. Ray Harris wrote the screen version.

In the cast are Hallam Cooley, the handsome James Ford, Kathleen Williams and Aileen Manning.

Added to the program today and Thursday is another of the popular all-talking comedies featuring Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy entitled, "Blotto." A Sound Traveltalk will complete the bill.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

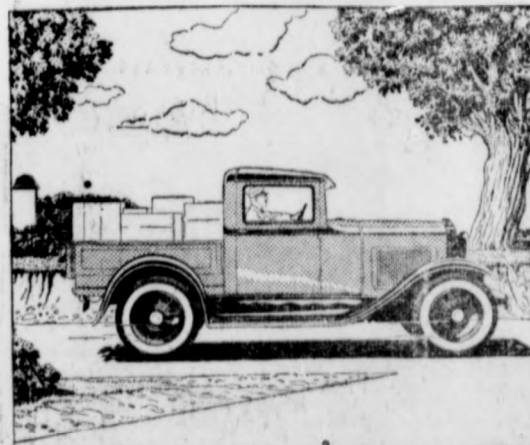

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

FORMER LOCAL MAN FIGURES IN FISH STORY

Joe Denman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Denman of this city, recently was the central figure in a fish story printed in the "Drake-A-Day," a publication issued by The Drake and The Blackstone hotels in Chicago. The story follows:

"Well, we have a fish story for you this week and one that is positively true!

"A chap came dashing in The Blackstone one night last week and said, 'There's a fish dying in the flower shop shop window out front!' Deeper Jack Denman, one of the assistant managers, secured pass keys and going into the Mangel Flower Shop climbed over the various flowers on display until he reached the gold fish that had flopped out of the bowl into the sand, and was too weak to even wiggle. By this time quite a crowd of curious spectators had their noses pressed against the glass trying to see what it was all about.

Mr. Denman dropped the fish back in the bowl and down it sank to the bottom. Soon, however, anxious lookers-on saw the poor fish's gills begin to slowly open and shut. It shivered and then began to swim gaily about. Mr. Denman left while the crowd with a last lingering look melted away."

Souders of this city was elected chairman of Group 5 of the Indiana Bankers' Association by approximately two hundred bankers from twelve counties in this district who attended the twenty-fifth annual convention of this group. Mr. Souders succeeds J. H. Riddell of Brazil.

OBITUARY

Noislessly as the daylight comes, the angel of death came and bore to her eternal reward the soul of Ethel Prichard White.

Tho' we shall miss her, our hearts are comforted with those of her happiness in that wonderful city not made by hands eternal in the heavens. Ethel was the daughter of John and Ida (Lewis) Prichard. Born April 1, 1906; died June 6, 1930, at the Putnam county hospital at the age of 24 years, 2 months, 6 days.

Her sickness was of short duration, and all that medical aid and loving hands could do was to no avail. In her early girlhood she united with the Friends church at Walnut Chapel. Thus showing to the world her need of the Savior.

On May 5, 1929, she became the wife of Harry White of Greencastle and their short married life was peaceful and happy until Ethel was called home. We shall miss her kind disposition and sunny smile. She leaves to mourn her going her husband, mother, six brothers, four sisters, a number of nieces and nephews and a host of other relatives and friends.

We turn to Him for comfort and may we even in our sorrow know God is in His heaven. May the seeds she would have sown, had God willed not, fall on fallow ground but grow and bear fruit in the lives of us who are left behind.

Earth has lost its look of gladness. Heaven seems to us more bright. Since the spirit of our dear one, Took its happy, homeward flight And we long to cross that river Long to rest upon that shore There to see, and know, and love her With the Savior, evermore.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks to our relatives and friends who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our beloved wife, also the undertaker, the singers, Harry A. White, Mother, Brothers, and Sisters.

Their Food Is Good

"Right here's the place to feed your face and get your money's worth. We treat you right both day and night. We serve the best on earth," and that's just what they do at Koche's restaurant, 104 N. Jackson St.

Appetizing aroma of coffee, stews and steaks tempt the folks in at noon for "Chow" and they always return to their work "full up" and satisfied. The proprietor Mr. W. F. — more intimately known as "Bill" Koche, is an expert on cooking and cleanliness and has built up a popular eating place through the aim—which is to please and appease hungry appetites. He specializes in sandwiches, home made pies and plate lunches and his service is quick and careful. You will be made welcome at this place and once you start eating there you are liable to become a regular. Someone wrote a poem which surely was intended for this very eating place.

"You're welcome here, we're full of cheer, we give no cause for sorrow; so eat you, fill and pay your bill and call again tomorrow." And they always come back, which after all is the greatest recommendation that could be given. Mr. Koche is recognized as a popular citizen and is always boosting the city and every progressive movement which tends to make this a better place to live. Greencastle folks have learned to appreciate "Bill" and his broad minded way of looking at things in general.

His specialty is happiness because his work is a happy task and folks who can bring smiles to the faces of tired laborers are artists in their line and necessary factors in life.

How long has Mr. Koche been in the restaurant business here?—Adv.

CHICKEN THIEF CAUGHT

MUNCIE, June 11 (UP)—Glenn Colson, farmer near here, was unaware that James T. Davis had visited his hen house and made off with eight chickens until the thief was returned by the sheriff and the chickens were safe at home. The theft was made at night and the arrest occurred before daybreak.

One of the chickens, a setting hen, returned to her nest before the eggs were cold.

Get That Permanent Now!

All women value beauty and appreciate the services and advice of a professional beauty expert. Beauty science has in the last few years, been so highly developed that every woman can now make the most of her natural loveliness. Schools of beauty culture have developed and hundreds of people have been taught the methods of perfecting external beauty, as well as laws affecting the general health. The truly fastidious woman is distinguished from her less particular sister by that finish; that perfection of grooming, resulting from the trained and skillful touch of the beauty expert. You will find that the operators of the Rainbow Beauty Shop located in the Alamo building, truly deserve to be called beauty experts. Only expert service satisfactorily given could earn the reputation that these operators enjoy. If you are not a regular caller at the Rainbow Beauty Shop, pay them a visit and see what kind of work is done there. You will see that all are not treated alike but that methods best suited to each individual are employed. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil J. Sutton, the proprietors of this shop, have made a name for themselves among the ladies of Greencastle as being the foremost in their line. You too, will appreciate the careful service that you will receive in this shop. They use the Skelton Permanent Waving machine and are prepared to combine their own faultless service with the most modern methods in giving you your next permanent.

Don't forget the address, (the Alamo building), and the phone number is 804-L.

How long have Mr. and Mrs. Sutton been engaged in this business?—Adv.

Mothers Are Queens

All mothers are queens, but until recent years they have not had time to really govern their kingdoms. Modern mothers have changed this by bringing modern labor-saving devices to her aid. One of the greatest helps to the housewife is the modern laundry which is rapidly causing the old-fashioned wash day to disappear. Women have learned that they do not have to tolerate wash day with its bathhouse baskets. They refuse to let it rob them of precious time, energy and nervous force, when it leaves nothing to show for those frenzied hours except the prospect of another wash day the following week. Millions of women are becoming convinced every week that laundry, washed clothes last longer and are really cleaner than when washed in the old home way. The Home Steam Laundry at 223-225 E. Washington St., makes a business of washday, and isn't it reasonable to expect an expert job? Mr. Sandy, manager of this laundry has placed skilled workers in each department. Soft water and the best soap obtainable are used exclusively in this modern laundry and this combined with the fact that they use only equipment designed by experts to do a certain work for you, guarantees that you will receive the very best service that can be obtained anywhere.

As a result of thousands of tests these experts know what methods are best to launder different fabrics and colors, and faithfully apply their knowledge to each step from the time your laundry arrives at the laundry until it is back in your home. All silks, woolsens and other delicate fabrics are washed in soft water, but Lux is used instead of soap, thus protecting them from any possible injury. Visit this place and observe the methods and equipment used and you will know first hand why it is said "It is a good laundry that is getting better."

What is the cost of the average family washing at this laundry?—Adv.

During this year 4,000 Gold Star Mothers are expected to make the pilgrimage which continues in 1931 and 1932. They will all be transported aboard American ships to and from Europe.

Chevrolet Builds 7,000,000th Car

On Wednesday morning, May 28, the seven millionth automobile produced by the Chevrolet Motor Company rolled off the assembly lines in the company's Flint, Mich., plant. The epochal car, which happens to be a coach, was driven into the plant yard by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the company, who acted as driver in honor of the occasion. The car was produced 10 months and 25 days after the six millionth Chevrolet left the lines June 25, 1929, a record for million car output for the entire automobile industry exceeded only by that in which Chevrolet turned out the preceding million in 9 months and 17 days.
